

SUSAN E. DUESLER

Attorney & Counselor at Law

◆ COVID-19 UPDATE ◆

We are committed to the health, safety, and well-being of our clients, our staff, and the public. Accordingly, we are following the recommendations of the Texas Supreme Court, Dallas County, and the Center for Disease Control and Prevention, to help manage the spread of the virus. At the same time, we are fully committed and prepared to help our clients succeed in their parenting efforts and protect their financial interests during this time.

We are open for business as usual.

We will continue to provide services to new and existing clients during this time. We have the technology to work securely at home, and have full access to phone, voicemail, email, and current client files. We have the capability for video-chat consultations and meetings. We continue to hold meetings and advocate for our clients, and are committed to ensure your needs are met in the most expeditious, safe, and personalized manner possible. We have continued to operate, seamlessly.

We also have the technology to allow for court cases and mediations to continue. We have been successful in scheduling and attending these during the pandemic.

We still offer confidential consultations for new clients.

We are continuing to schedule consultations and advocate for our clients. Please email us or call us at (214) 999-0088.

The courts are open for business.

While most Texas courts are still operating, they are doing so on a limited basis. The courts are accepting filings the same that they were prior to the COVID-19 pandemic, for new filings and for existing cases. All filings are electronic, and so there is no interruption to court access.

The courts are adjusting regular operations, and many non-emergency hearings are being rescheduled. Most courts now have policies to assist in the finalization of cases. The policies on court appearances change daily, so please contact us via email or at (214) 999-0088 to discuss how this affects your case.
